It is time to implement the settlement reached in the Microsoft case. Further litigation would be counterproductive. Already, millions of dollars have been spent to reach a decision that has been deemed acceptable by millions of individuals.

As a user of the technology being judged, I was readily able to choose between providers. In fact, I am of the opinion that the lawsuit lacked initial merit. Those millions of dollars spent on this case could very well have been allocated to more needy causes; e.g., education, homelessness, poverty.

Respectfully submitted,
